THE WEATHER. - The weather of yes terday sertainly merits a word of mention. The contrast after the long spell of disagreeable weather we have "enjayed" was striking and none the less agreeable. Old Sol shone down through a clear sky all day long, and the air was particularly bracing. The mud under the drying influence of a fine breeze began palpably to abate. A couple of hundred miles farther north ice and snow, with the accompanying feature of fierce boreal blasts, are all the order of

WE will sell our dress goods for less somey than those that advertise to sell at CAMERON, GRIER & Co.

BADLY TANGLED .- We saw a man last evening trying to make his way over one of the extremely muddy crossings of Church street. He had evidently imbibed more than a glass too much, and the effort he undertook was more then he could bear. When near the middle of the street he gave a wide lurch like a vessel carrying a bad weather helm, and fell flat on his back in an ocean of mud.

POIACE COURT,-There were but few cases on the docket of the Police Court yesterday morning.

Rob Roy, for disorderly conduct, was fined twenty-five dollars. Martin Dececey, for the same offens was fined fifty dollars. Dan DeLaney was also taxed on same offense fifty dollars. David Fitzgerald was taxed fifty dollars for disorderly conduct.

C. Riddler, merchandizing without l cense, was taxed fifteen dollars. Two or three cases were discharged there being no convicting evidence.

QUIET.-The city was more than usually peaceable and quiet yesterday. Items were as scarce as somebody's visits, we do not now remember. A number of incidents budded promisingly but the blossoms were of the most insignificant character and not worth plucking. For instance there was a lively dog fight on Spruce street, south of Broad, and all the colored peopleof the vicinity flocked to see the sights. county, for $350 Negroes are proverbial for their love of this sport, and the war of the canines occasionally arouses bellicose feelings in the bosoms of the subla individuals. It slid in the present instance. Two of the on-lookers got into a quarrel about which was the best dog, and peeling off their outside gars ments, stood confronting each other for some time. Their fiery spirits cooled down however, as the cold air cooled their thinly clad bodies, and they subsided without a single round. We went on disgusted. On Cherry street, two young bloods got to boxing in sport, and afterwards in earnest whereupon one of them knocked the other into the middle of the street. The matter ended there, without a jaw out of joint, or a flatened nose. Later in the day the fire bells sounded an alarm, but there was no attendant fire. We were glad there was none. We consider ourselves public spirited and dislike to see people lose their property in the most unsatisfactory way in the world—ameke and a bed of ashes.

Pires make good sensational items, we must A man working on the roof of a build-ing in South Nashville lost his footing and ctually slipped half over the eaves, where he caught, and saved himself from a twentyfive foot fall onto a stone pile.

There was not a murder, that we heard of; not a robbery beyond the legalized swindling practiced pretty extensively in this town. The city was crowded with people on the rush here and there, rustic farmers, home-bred "plebelans," and prond patricians, all peaceable, however, and bent on business or pleasure. We have been requested to call attention to the condition of the gutter on the east side of Spruce street, between Church and Broad. It seems to have been filled up at sisement of Wm. Gamble & Co., 26 Cherry, one place, and during the recent rains overflowed so as to render the sidewalk adjacent almost impassable. The obstruc-Workmen have been engaged during the last few days in lowering the ground on the river at the foot of Church street, preparatory, we understand, to erecting a ilding on the site. The new ransfer stables, on Market street near Church, have been completed, with improved arrangements and extra of the company. Workmen are still engaged in lowering the grade of Spruce street on Capitol Hill. A vast amount of labor will be required to finish this improvement. The sulphur spring on the flats below follege street has been overflowed during e present flood in the Cumberland. Lovers of this fragrant water have been compelled to forego their regular potations for more than a week past. The wood market was well supplied yes terday. We counted something like forty n-loads on the Square.

The roads outside the city, where not McAdamized, are now in a terribly muddy and mirey condition The days when gold and silver were used is a circulating medium have become almost legendary. He sits meekly on the fence : all which divides the too good to live from those who ain't. His tastes are literary. He has been drunk

but fifty or sixty times. The first time he imagined himself Diogenes, and straight-way bought himself a tub. He put it on the sidewalk, sat in it, and waited patiently for Alexander to come. Little boys mocke him. They flung lumps of dirt at him. Though he bore it patiently, he wished he had chosen the character of Elisha. But it was Diogenes' fate to be abused. But when Alexander—the policeman—came and told him he was drunk, instead of say-ing: "Were I not Alexander I would be Diogenes," his wrath arose. He cursed him in classic language. That is, dog-latin. Ashe didn't speak Greek, of course the policeman -Alexander-understood him not. Yet, being of kindly disposition, he invited him to spend the night at the calabooss. The policeman's song is more ravishing even than that of the Lorelei. He could not resist it, and went. Whom of us can? Of course he was fined the $5 next day. The tub he took home with him, and it hangs on the wall. Whenever he has any wicked thoughts, he usually taken down the tub and sita in it. There he moralines, and becomes good again. On Wednesday evening, however, Mr Dow forgot all about the tub and drank to excess. He imbibed glass after glass of spirits until he could hold no more. Bythe way and fell over the curb stone int the gutter. By the fall he peeled his nose savagely, and plastered his clothes with mire. He tried to hire a hackman to take
